Introduction

These unclaimed dividends include all those $5.00 and over.

They arise because we have lost contact (or never had contact) with the shareholder shown or their descendants succeeding to Māori land interests.

There will be cases where the name spelling on this list is incorrect. If there is a name that could have been misspelt or your tupuna used another name(s), please contact Rehara because we have records going back to 1955 and earlier.

[Please be patient, as this research is time-consuming and Rehara works part time for us. Fyi, priority will be given to investigating the larger amounts, although we don't believe there are many traceable, given the multiple attempts over the years!]

History

While older shareholders will know the history, many viewing this will not.

Under the leadership of inaugural chairman of Dr Rangi Metekingi and the legal guidance of Allan Horsley, The Whanganui Trust was formed in 1965 under the Trustees Act 1956. In spite of universal scepticism, they managed to get permission for the trust to be the first authorised to hold unclaimed money from Māori land (incorporation shares are deemed to be Māori land) and used the interest therefrom for charitable purposes.

The Whanganui Trust still makes education and other individual and community grants today.

This marked a shift from prior Crown practice, where such funds were often held by the Māori Trustee or redirected to education assistance via the Department of Māori Affairs. Not only was income from these funds distributed but after a certain time, the rent and dividends themselves were also used.
